(AUGUST 21, 2000 - JANUARY 2, 2001 AND JANUARY 24, 2001 - MAY 28, 2001)

Qualified candidates are being sought for a pool of applicants to be used in filling temporary part-time and full-time faculty positions which may become available during the 2000-2001 academic year in the Department of Mathematics at Sonoma State University.

THE UNIVERSITY: Sonoma State University is one of the 23 campuses of The California State University. Located 48 miles north of San Francisco, the University has an enrollment of approximately 6,600 students with 400 faculty. The University is organized into six schools; Arts and Humanities, Business and Economics, Education, Extended Education, Natural Sciences and Social Sciences. Within the traditional structure is an interdisciplinary school of liberal studies. The University offers bachelor's degrees in 33 fields and master's degrees in 12.

THE DEPARTMENT: The Department of Mathematics offers a B.A. degree and a B.S. degree in Mathematics and a cooperative M.A. degree in Mathematics in collaboration with San Francisco State University. The Bachelor of Arts degree, with concentrations in Secondary Teaching and Pure Mathematics, provides preparation for teaching, general applications of mathematics, and graduate study in mathematics. The Bachelor of Science degree has three concentrations: Applied Mathematics, Statistics, and Computer Science. The Department emphasizes excellence in teaching, active student participation in learning mathematics, and close interaction between faculty and students. There are no large lecture classes and upper division classes are small. For more information on the Mathematics Department consult: <www.sonoma.edu/math/>.
