The Anthropological Studies Center undertakes activities that benefit the students of Sonoma State University, scholarship in the field of historic preservation, and the community at large.

The Center fulfills its mission in education, research, and public service by creating the opportunity for SSU students to learn real-world skills in historic preservation through the Center’s professional apprenticeship program; by maintaining an Archaeological Collections Facility in which millions of artifacts are available for students and scholars to study; and by operating an Office of Interpretive and Outreach Services that provides the public with information about archaeology and historic preservation.

Since 1977, nongovernmental organizations and state and federal agencies have awarded ASC more than $40 million in grants and contracts. The Center, which maintains more than 5,000 square feet of laboratory and administrative office space, has a staff of 25 salaried professional staff and many part-time student employees. In 1999, ASC was awarded the Governor’s Award for Historic Preservation by Governor Davis.

The California Institute on Human Services (CIHS) works in concert with the SSU faculty, staff, and students in developing and testing research-based solutions to “real world” problems in the fields of education and related human services. Current areas of focus include child and family violence prevention, early childhood education, language development, literacy, improvement of low-performing schools, service learning, special education, and career vocational education.

The education, child development, and social science professionals and staff who work at CIHS possess special expertise and experience in the delivery of professional development training and technical assistance programs, in-service learning, the design and preparation of research-based written and video program materials, assessment systems, and the latest developments in computerized distance learning. CIHS is committed to work that reduces barriers to learning and opportunity, and promotes a healthier and better quality of life for all individuals throughout the United States.

The California Reading and Literature Project (CRLP) is one of the several subject matter projects administered by the University of California in concurrence with the superintendent of public instruction and the chancellor of the California State University. The mission of the CRLP is to help ensure that every California student achieves the highest standards of performance in reading and language arts through support for teacher leadership and by providing continuing professional development opportunities for teachers of reading and literature, including expository texts, in K-12 and university classrooms.

The site office at Sonoma State University administers programs for educators from Marin County to the Oregon border. Teachers working in grades K-university are invited to participate in the many professional development opportunities offered by the California Reading and Literature Project, including the Governor’s Reading Professional Development Institutes, University-based courses and institutes, and site-based staff development. The chief focus of the Project is the improvement of student achievement against state standards, with a special focus on underperforming schools. In all CRLP programs, teachers participate in the examination of best classroom practice in the teaching of reading and literature, as well as recognition of the multifaceted roles in which teachers are engaged themselves as readers, facilitators of learning, researchers, and professionals.

Center for Management and Business Research
Stevenson Hall 2042
(707) 664-2377

The Center for Management and Business Research serves as a bridge between the institution and the external community, and provides the business community with an opportunity to upgrade existing skills, to gain new knowledge, and to increase productivity. The Center also serves as a repository of a comprehensive economic database useful to decision makers in the North Bay.
Center for Economic Education

Stevenson Hall 2026-N
(707) 664-3070

Director
Sue Hayes

The Center for Economic Education provides school teachers and the general public in the service area with a variety of educational materials. The Center also conducts workshops for high school economics teachers as required by Senate Bill 1213.

Institute for Small Business Development

Director

The Institute works with small businesses that meet specific requirements for fieldwork for small business students.

Center for Regional Economic Analysis

Stevenson Hall 2042
(707) 664-4256

Director
Robert Eyler
eyler@sonoma.edu

The Center for Regional Economic Analysis (CREA) at SSU provides first-rate research, data, and analysis for local industry and governments. Its mission is to produce and disseminate new information in the general area of economic research, and in the specific areas of business economics, economic development, regional economics, and fiscal policy. The CREA serves the business community; federal, state, and local governments; individuals; and SSU. A special emphasis is placed on businesses and governments in the SSU service area.

e-mail: ctpd@sonoma.edu

The Center for Teaching and Professional Development is funded from the budget for academic programs and is developed by University faculty to support professional development, especially excellence in teaching. It is operated by one faculty member (devoting 40 percent of his/her time to the center) and a part-time staff person, and offers a variety of services.

Workshops and programs are designed to support faculty in the use of instructional technology, innovative curriculum development, classroom management, and professional development. Workshops have highlighted collaborative learning, computer-mediated instruction, teaching traditional-age students, recognizing gender bias, developing and maintaining scholarly and professional writing skills, and situational leadership for department chairs. The Director consults with faculty one-on-one and in groups to develop effective tools and strategies for the enhancement of teaching. The Director is also available for making classroom visits to provide feedback on teaching. The Center directs the orientation process for new faculty during their first years at the University and is a clearinghouse for dissemination of professional literature and information to faculty.

Center for the Study of the Holocaust and Genocide

e-mail: centerh@sonoma.edu

Director
Myrna Goodman

The Center for the Study of the Holocaust and Genocide is an academic institute constituted in February 1987 to provide education on the origins, nature, and consequences of the Holocaust. Recently, the Center has broadened and expanded its focus to include the study of other historical and modern genocides. The primary activities of the Center are the organization and coordination of the annual, nationally recognized Holocaust Lecture Series; developing Holocaust resource materials (publications, electronic media, etc.) for campus, school, and public use; and cooperative efforts with a community-based group, the Alliance for the Study of the Holocaust, to provide Holocaust education in the SSU service area schools. The Center also promotes research on Holocaust themes and has sponsored conferences, film series, author presentations, and teacher training seminars. In collaboration with the Schulz Information Center and other regional libraries, the Center enhances the collection of books, videos, and other descriptive materials. The Center also supports commemorative events and the presentation of artistic and historical exhibits and offers access to information on the Holocaust and genocide across a broad range of thematic and disciplinary approaches.

Community Counseling Project

Stevenson Hall 1001
(707) 664-2648

Director
Mark Doolittle
e-mail: mark.doolitttle@sonoma.edu

Under sponsorship of the Counseling Department and the California Institute of Human Services, the Project’s goals are:
1) To create links between the University and the community that provide direct, practical services for the less fortunate and less advantaged members of our community.

2) Through the on-campus Community Counseling Clinic and Outreach Programs, to provide high quality, low-cost services to the children, families, and communities in the service area of SSU.

3) To support and develop collaborative programs with businesses, agencies, schools, and foundations that create innovative solutions for the social, family, and personal problems facing individuals and families in our community.

4) To sponsor and support the development of on-campus collaborations between SSU departments and centers which serve the goals of community service, increased training options, and expanded research opportunities that enhance the educational and career opportunities of Sonoma State University students.

Entrepreneurship Center

Stevenson 2019

Director
Armand Gilinsky
e-mail: armand.gilinsky@sonoma.edu

The Entrepreneurship Center is a new initiative undertaken to address the educational needs of existing and aspiring entrepreneurs in our six-county service area. The Center leverages support of the SSU School of Business and Economics and seed money provided by the Codding Foundation and other local sponsors. The Center is in the process of forming an Advisory Board. The Center hosts monthly breakfast briefings by successful local entrepreneurs for small and family-owned businesses and nonprofits at a nominal cost.

The Center promotes and fosters the use of geographic information systems (GIS) technology in education and research at SSU and the surrounding region. The Center seeks to stimulate interdisciplinary collaboration among faculty, students, and other groups who can benefit from using geographical information and spatial analysis. The Center accomplishes this mission by providing shared hardware and software resources; data archives and access; consulting services; community outreach; and courses for GIS education. Housed in the Department of Geography, the Center provides several courses with a solid foundation in geographic information science, as well as hands-on experience using GIS analytical tools. The Center is dedicated to fostering student participation in funded research projects and community service. Student research assistants and interns are an integral component of the Center’s productivity.

Projects at the Center have recently focused on efforts such as developing geographical models to predict the spread of sudden oak death; using high-resolution aircraft imagery for natural resource assessment of regional state parks; modeling spatial patterns in the abundance of invasive weeds; mapping habitat suitability for the endangered Point Arena mountain beaver; and mapping road and property parcels using aircraft imagery.

The Center has a resident systems administrator and well-equipped instructional and research computer labs for GIS analysis, image processing, and digital cartography. The Center also oper-

Named in honor of the pioneer ecologist Fairfield Osborn, the Preserve was donated to The Nature Conservancy by the Roth family in 1972. Owned and managed by SSU since 1998, Fairfield Osborn Preserve is dedicated to protecting and restoring natural communities and fostering ecological understanding through education and research. The preserve offers SSU students the opportunity to deepen their educational experience to include field research and community-based environmental service learning.

The Preserve’s environmental education program, offered to regional elementary school classes, is among the longest and longest running in Northern California. Thousands of elementary school children learn about nature each year by participating in this program. The Preserve offers public tours and a series of field workshops led by local experts on the biology and geology of the region.

Located on the western slope of the interior Coast Range mountains, the Preserve harbors a great diversity of natural communities on its 461 acres – oak woodland, freshwater marsh, upland vernal pool, riparian woodland, chaparral, evergreen forest, native grassland, and pond. This combination of aquatic and terrestrial habitats makes the Preserve an important refuge for wildlife, including migratory birds, rare amphibians, and aquatic invertebrates and insects. To protect these biological resources and ongoing research projects, and to ensure the safety of visitors, the Preserve is open for guided hikes only.
ates a base station for the global positioning system (GPS) and maintains ten GPS mobile receiver units. As a complement to this technology, the Center also houses extensive collections of maps, aerial photographs, and remotely sensed imagery, and one of the most complete historical weather libraries in California. A real-time weather station provides students and the community with current weather data in addition to historical resources.

Hutchins Institute for Public Policy Studies and Community Action

Rachel Carson Hall 34
(707) 664-3185

Director
Francisco H. Vázquez
e-mail: francisco.vazquez@sonoma.edu

The mission of the Hutchins Institute for Public Policy Studies and Community Action is to promote discussions about environmental and socioeconomic issues on and off campus, and to facilitate research and projects on these topics.

In keeping with this mission, the Hutchins Institute sponsors the following programs:

- A Liberal Studies Degree Completion Program featuring Saturday seminars and weekly online discussions. Students remain in the same cohort for four semesters in the interests of creating a vibrant learning community.

- Action for a Viable Future: a master’s program emphasizing the interrelationships among three themes: ecological issues, economic/social justice issues, and the moral and psychological dimensions of change. The action projects completed by Master’s students add a public policy dimension to the Center.

- College Assistance Migrant Program (CAMP): recruitment and support of first year college migrant or seasonal students at Sonoma State University, Santa Rosa Junior College, and Napa Valley Community College.

- Center for Information and Research on Civic Learning and Engagement (CIRCLE): a research project to determine the levels of civic engagement among Latino high school students.

- The Student Congress: a high school-based project that promotes Socratic seminars among underserved high school students.

- Northern California Earth Institute: to promote discussion groups based on a series of five group study guides on various topics relating to sustainability.

- Roseland Redevelopment Project: A project to turn the Roseland Shopping Center located in Sebastopol Road (to Dutton Avenue) into a three-story building with low-income housing on the third floor, offices in the second floor, and businesses on the first floor. Include in this urban development a multicultural center and a plaza with a kiosk and gardens.

The Hutchins Institute invites the submission of proposals to promote activities that are in keeping with its mission. Anyone interested in participating in any of the listed current activities or wishing to propose new projects should contact the Director.

Institute for Community Planning Assistance

Director
Thomas Jacobson
e-mail: tom.jacobson@sonoma.edu

The Institute for Community Planning Assistance is a nonprofit research and community service center sponsored by the Department of Environmental Studies and Planning at Sonoma State University. ICPA was established in 1984 to meet the expressed needs of public agencies in the University service area, which sought affordable, often labor-intensive, studies, surveys, and other projects. ICPA utilizes SSU faculty and students to staff these community projects. Among ICPA’s ongoing activities is the Environmental Mediation Program, which offers neutral, third-party facilitation and mediation services on land use and environmental matters. Emphasis is on dispute avoidance and resolution and on consensus-building. ICPA also offers training programs to local governments on a variety of planning and planning law topics.

ICPA’s primary purposes are to:

- engage in community service by making services available to local agencies;

- provide a mechanism for faculty and student research in the areas of community and environmental planning;

- further the education and professional development of Environmental Studies and Planning students by complementing their classroom and internship experiences; and

- provide financial assistance in the form of wages to student assistants, who are hired on an as-needed basis to fill various research and support roles.
Migrant Education Advisor Program

Nichols 241
(707) 664-2748

Director
Colleen Olmstead
e-mail: colleen.olmstead@sonoma.edu

An urgent need exists for role models with knowledge of challenges encountered by migrant students and for advocates sensitive to their social and academic needs. Research highlights three critical areas of need:

1. Lack of sufficient school counseling services, particularly ethnically diverse counselors.
2. High state and national high school dropout rates among migrant students.
3. Low disproportionate numbers of migrant students enrolling in college.

The Migrant Education Advisor Program (MEAP) is a California State University collaborative project responding to these needs.

MEAP Goals:

• Promote bilingual (bicultural) college undergraduates and Counseling M.A. program graduate students as role models and future school counselors and educators, offering paid work experience and training as paraprofessional school advisors.

• Provide academic advising for migrant and at-risk students to ensure graduation and skills for lifelong success and pursuit of postsecondary education.

• Provide career guidance so that migrant and at-risk students develop career and educational goals.

• Support social, emotional, and academic growth of students served through fostering of self-esteem, cultural pride, and leadership development.

The North Bay International Studies Project (NBISP) is one of the grant-funded, statewide subject-matter projects that provide pedagogical and curriculum resources in History/Social Science and International Studies to the University and K-12 educational community. The Project offers workshops, seminars, lectures, and summer institutes aligned with the California State Standards for history/social science, including content programs in international studies, world and American history, teaching methodologies, and leadership development. All teachers participating in NBISP programs examine what constitutes best classroom practice in history/social science and the multifaceted roles in which teachers are engaged as facilitators of learning, researchers, and professionals. NBISP programs are also open to student teachers.

Director
Peter Phillips

Founded by Carl Jensen in 1976, Project Censored is a nonprofit program within the SSU Foundation, a 501(c)3 organization. Its principle objective is the advocacy for, and protection of, First Amendment free press rights in the United States.

Through a partnership of faculty, students, and the community, Project Censored serves as a national media ombudsman by identifying important national news stories that are underreported, ignored, misrepresented, or censored by media corporations anywhere in the United States. The project also encourages and supports journalists, faculty, and student investigations into First Amendment issues through its annual censorship yearbook, quarterly newsletter Censored Alert, and nationwide free press advocacy.

Each year, Project Censored publishes a list of the top 25 most censored/misunderstood nationally important news stories. The book, Censored: The News Stories That Didn’t Make the News, is released each year in March. Project Censored is administered through the SSU Sociology Department.

Sonoma Film Institute

A program of Extended Education, Sonoma State American Language Institute (SSALI) provides intensive language instruction to students, professionals, and others who need to learn English quickly to meet academic, job-related, and social needs.

Since 1979, SSALI has been providing challenging classes taught in a supportive and family-like environment. In addition to serving the needs of foreign students on F-1 visas, the SSALI program is ideal for international employees, trainees, and their spouses and adult children on B1, J1, H1B, or H4 visas, as well as residents. Most students can study up to 24 hours per week in grammar, composition, reading, and oral communication as well as elective courses such as TOEFL preparation, American culture, business, pronunciation, conversation, and vocabulary. SSALI students enjoy a variety of extracurricular activities, including holiday celebrations, sporting competitions, and excursions to nearby places of cultural and social interest.

Short-term contracts are also available by special arrangement.

For complete details on the SSALI program, contact the Institute or access its webpage at www.sonoma.edu/exed/ssali/.

Sonoma State University Wine Business Program

Director
Mack Schwing
e-mail: winebiz@sonoma.edu

Created through a partnership between the University and the wine industry, Sonoma State's Wine Business Program is the only University program in the United States to focus exclusively on the business dynamic within the wine industry. While other universities have programs that emphasize grape growing and wine making, SSU's program offers a specialized curriculum concerned with the business challenges currently facing the wine industry. For the wine industry professional, the University offers its professional development courses. These classes are designed specifically to improve the range of skills for those already employed within the wine industry.

Coordinator
Elaine Sundberg
(707) 664-2215
e-mail: elaine.sundberg@sonoma.edu

The Office of Community-Based Learning (OCBL) advances community-based programs on the SSU campus. The OBCL supports faculty to develop innovative, community-based teaching that engages local agencies and schools in partnerships to address real-world problems. Ultimately, this encourages students to be active citizens and learn through service.

The OBCL serves as a central point of contact for faculty, community agencies, and students who want information and support for community-based programs at SSU. We offer a range of support services, including: faculty development grants, faculty mentoring and training opportunities, student leadership programs, campus contacts and information for community agencies, and ongoing support for service learning promotion and recognition.
