Sonoma State University

Undergraduate Pathways to Careers in Teaching

Option I

The Accelerated Program

These programs will allow incoming freshmen who commit to a rigorous and specified program of coursework and fieldwork to achieve both a bachelor's degree and a teaching credential in four years. Summer sessions are often included in the plan. Apply to the Blended Bachelor's Degree and Teaching Credential Program at Sonoma State University. For additional information and application process contact program advisors (see reverse side).

OR

Option II

Subject Matter Preparation Program

The following subject matter preparation programs are academic majors for future teachers. You will not earn a credential upon completion of the program but you will receive subject matter preparation in the subject(s) you are interested in teaching. First apply to an undergraduate subject matter preparation program. Then in your senior year, apply to a School of Education Teacher Credential preparation program. Contact the program advisor for additional information (see reverse side).
