SSU Department of History Invited all students, faculty, and staff to attend the 2018 Women’s History Lecture

Interviewing Political Women in the Age of Clinton and Trump

Dr. Natalie M. Fousekis

Please join us in welcoming Natalie Fousekis as our guest lecture for Women’s History Month. Dr. Fousekis is the Director of the Lawrence de Graaf Center for Oral and Public History (COPH) and Professor of History at California State University, Fullerton. Her specialties include modern U.S. History, grassroots politics, women’s history, and oral history. Fousekis serves as the Oral History Association’s (OHA) Vice President and will serve as OHA President in 2019. Her book, Demanding Child Care: Women’s Activism and the Politics of Welfare, 1940-1971, uses oral histories among other sources to examine a grassroots movement waged by mothers and educators to preserve California’s public child care program from World War II to the War on Poverty.

Wednesday, March 14th, 3:30-5:30 pm,
Schulz Library, Room 3001
